Coal Ashes for Roads.

Coal ashes may be used with advantage in making roads and paths. A good covering of ashes, over which a little soil is thrown, will soon form a hard, solid road. A better plan still is to excavate the bed of the walk or road a few inches below the general surface; pour on a coating of coal tar and cover it thickly with coal ashes. When this is dry, repeat it with another coat of tar and ashes, and continue the process until there are four coats of each. This will in a short time become as hard as stone .- N. Y. Ezam

THERE are at least two features connected with the cholora epidemic in Italy, says the St. Louis Globe-Demograt, which are unprecedented. One is the length of time which it has remained in the infected districts, and the other is its failure to enter England and cross the Atlantic to the United States. The present is the fourth consecutive season in which it has been virulent to one or two districts of Italy, and yet, although some of the seaports in France have been visited in successive summers. England and the northern poction of the Ameri can continent have escaped attack. There is a strong probability that this time which would be the first in the history of cholera visitations, the march of the Asiat e scourge will be staid before it has eircled the globe.

Ir is difficult, says the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph, to suit overybody in the passage of laws intended to regulate the labor question. The Maine Logislature passed a ten-hour law for factory operatives, and it does not suit the employes of the Waterville cotton nulls at all. Those who work by the piece complain that they cannot earn so much since the passage of the ten-hour law as formerly; while, on the contrary, those working by the day can get the same wages as heretofore without working so many hours. The dilemma appears to be this: Whether the day wages shall be cut down to heal the gravances of the piec -workers, or the pay of the piecework rs shall be advanced so they can make as much money in the shorter day as formerly.

and Unsubstantial Foun-

A Neckiace of Human Fingers-The Hot Spring. Reservation-Railroad Grant Adjusted.

The Crawford Betrayal Case---Remov of the District Commissioners

Demanded. The Tobacco Boom and Its Unsubstantial

Foundation.
Washington, Aug. 3.—Statistican Dodge of the Department of Agriculture is out in a card, embodying a very plain statement about the tobacco crop of the country. He says, as to the present flurry. "The tobac-co growers received so small compensation for their labor last year that they have greatly curtailed production. Their pro duct is in the hands of dealers, who are now 'making hay while the sun shines' a tobacco beem, by which they hope to clear out at double rates their overburdened warehouses, fill orders for a large part of next year's consumption and then scoop in the cured tobacco of the coming crops next winter and spring at much lower rates than they are hoping to sell their surplus for. This is the animus of the wild estimates of next to no tobacco crop in 1887, which are now in vogue. Before Christmas tobacco speculators will see a new light. There will be a larger area than they thought, and the crop will be beyond expectation, and the market will be dull, and consumers supplied, and the whole situation changed, so that grow-ers will be offered only a moderate advance on the last year's rates. The present boom does not interest farmers trade, and it will be six or eight months before the farmers will market their new

A fact as to stocks: On the 1st of July the average stocks on hand in all Western markets for five years, 1881-85, was about market for two years, 1831-80, was about 86,000 hogsheads. The July average for the last two years, 1886 and 1887, was over 72,000 hogsheads; fully double. That explains the necessity of reduced area on the part of the farmers, and of a desperate effort to beem prices and get rid of the surplus on the part of the dealers. The receipts of the last three years, from January to July, have an average of 154,-000 hogsheads, against 110,000 for the four previous years. Here lies the mulk in the commercial cocoanut von present me." "As to our estimates: We made only a first estimate, from Incomplete returns, Our special tobacco inquiry is now out, and we propose to make the investigation thorough, to get the truth and tell it in ample season for the information of growers, whether the speculator shall bear or forhear, or otherwise. We have no other interest in the matter. They have, A Ghustly Relie of Savage Barbarity,

Washington, Aug. 8.—A curious and in-teresting relic of Indian barbarism was received at the War Department a few days ago. It consisted of a necklace of human fugers. Originally there were eleven flagers strong together after the manner of necklaces of bear claws, but three of them had been lost. This ghastly adornment was captured in an attack on the Northern Cheyennes in 1876, and was the twenty-seventh annual convention at the Park Theater this morning, President Alport, of Chicago, in the Chair. About represented a lite taken by the owner The fingers have been preserved by opening the skin, removing the bones, scraping away the tissues and fatty sub-stances and subjecting the skin to some tanning process. The necklace was sent to Wost Point by Captain Rourke, who is now engaged in preparing some historical matter relating to the Indians. It was brought from West Point here in order that it might be reproduced in papier machie at the Smithsonian Institution. The scientists of that institution are quite enthusiastic over it, regarding it as a procious specimen of the barbarous habits of the Indians, who are now fast disappearing. War Department officials, however, looked upon it with disgust when they could bring themselves to take a peep at if

HIMSELF A FLOATER,

Mike Burke, the Well-Known Floater Catcher Drowned.

Sr. Louis, Aug. 3.—An inquest was held it the coroner's office yesterday on the body of Mike Burke, who was drowned Sunday morning, and whose body was recovered Monday night at the foot of Locus street. Burke was quite a character in his way. He was an expert diver and swimmer, and made a business of catching dead bodies on the river. During the summer season, or what is at the Coroner's office a the "floater season." Burke was constantly on the lookout for dead bodies in the river, particularly when some per son for whose body there was a reward of fored had been drowned. And it was in attempting to recover a body that Burk met his death. He it was that recovered the body of William Buddenburg, the salcon-keeper who was drowned while getting off the steamer Charles P. Chouteau after returning salcon-keeper who from an excursion at which he had the refreshment privileges. Many an other body Burke had taken from the river and his face was a familiar sight at the morgue and the coroner's office. Last night the body of the little "floater" catcher was brought from the river to the morgue. It seems strange that one who had brought so many drowned bodies into this charnel house should be brought in here as a "floater."

Burke was a short, powerfully built man twenty-seven years of age, and lived with his wife and two children at No. 822 Biddle street. He was a native of New York and by trade a carpenter. Lest Saturday night young son of Michael Carroll was frowned in the river at the foot of Christy avenue.

Sunday morning Carroll called on Burke and Thomas J. McNeil, a friend of the latter who was often his companion in his searches for dead bodies, and requeste them to endeavor to recover the body of his boy. The men consented and went to the foot of Christy avenue, where the boy's body was supposed to be in the river under a flat boat. It was about eleven o'clock and the men agreed to dive in turns under the boat for the body. They were to have a rope attached to themselves, and when they jerked three times, were to be hauled out. Moneil had a rope tied to his wrist, but Burke mercly held the rope in his hand. Burke dived under, and soon after gave two jerks on the rope. It was pulled in and came very easy, as though there was no weight on it When the end came out Burke did not come out with it, and McNeil dived under to learn what had happened to him. He did not find him however and after an hour's sourch for his body his friends qui and went home. Carroll's body was found later in the day, and Burke's was not re-covered until Monday night. It is supposed that the latter was entangled in some manner under the flatboat and could not extricate himself. His object in holding on to the rope instead of having it tied to him was to be able to let go of it in case it in any way became entangled. An inquest was held on his body and a verdict of accidental death returned.

THE KENTUCKY ELECTION.

The Old Stronghold of Bourbon Democracy Shaken to Its Foundation.

The Majority Probably Cut Down to About Twelve Thousand --- Prohibitionist and Labor Vote.

LOUISVILLE, Kv., Aug. 3.-The Democratic claim of 25,080 for General Buckner which is a loss of forty per cent, of the ma-jority given to Proctor Knott four years ago, will not be realized. The most rehable estimates made from returns from all parts of the State accessible by telegraph, representing about eighty-five per cent. of the aggregate vote, indicates that the Democratic numerity will be less than 15,000 for the State ticket. In the legislative destricts, however, the usual Democratic majorities were not materially reduced, excepting in the districts including Covington and Newport, (Mr. Carhsle's district) which were carried by the Union Labor candidates with Republican aid. A majority of the most prominent Republicans, seeing a result, which for the first, time in the history of their party in this State, in-dicates the possibility of a fighting chance, at least in State and National elections, regret that their ticket was not headed by Hon. LORDON, Aug. 3.—The Gladstonian vic-ory achieved by the election of Mr. Trev elyan at Glasgow yesterday is felt in Con servative circles as the heaviest blow the Unionists have ever experienced. When the result of the election became known in the House of Commons, the members deserted their benches and flocked into the lobbies to discuss the matter, and its bearing on the future. The Home-Rule members are jubilant. THE MEANING OF IT-

London, Aug. 3.-Mr. George O. Trevel yan, in a speech last evening, said that the Gladstonian victory in the Bridgeton dis-trict of Glesgow yesterday had made it next to impossible for the government to proclaim the National League. The election, he said, had very largely settled the Irish question, and henceforth Ireland must be treated with a policy of kindness, onciliation and confidence. CHANG TA JEN.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Chang Ta Jen, the new Chinese Minister to the United States, Ireland. THE ADVANCE OF THE RUSH CALSE.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Mr. William O'Brief said yesterday afternoon, in reference to the presentation of the freedom of Dublin city to himself and Mr. Patrick A. Collins ing evidence of the advance of the Iris cause. "Seven years ago," he said, "the honor which has to-day been conferred ipon Mr. Collins and myself was refused to Mr. Parnell, and though there was great indignation manifested thereat, it was taken for granted that the prevailing sentiment of the people und cor poration of Dublin was opposed to honoring a man who had rendered distinguishe services to the cause of freedom of Ireland services to the cause of freedom of freshold the people feel that the presentation to Mr. Parnell of the freedom of Dublin would but feebly express their appreciation of the man and his work."

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE. DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—At the regular fort-nightly meeting of the National League yesterday, the first since the Coercion law went into effect, the receipts from America for the last two weeks were announced t nave been '£52,000. Lord Mayor D. Sall van, speaking of the Crimes act and the possibility of its rigid enforcement, declared that if the league should be proclaimed it would still continue the fight it was engaged in.

Mr. Patrick A. Collins, of Boston, made a brief speech in which he assured the league of America's sympathy NEVER! NO, NEVER!

DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—In conferring the free

M. FERRY'S COWARDICE. London, Aug. 3.—The attempts of Gen-aral Boulanger's seconds to arrange a ducl between their principal and M. Jules Fer-Watkins, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The Grand eral Boulanger's seconds to arrange a duel between their principal and M. Jules Ferry have assumed phases affording much amusement to disinterested persons. The bickerings of the representatives of the ex-ministers have gone far to confirm the opinion formed by many that the affair would ultimately end in a fizzle, and the tactics employed appear to have been borowed for the occasion from the devotees of the sprint-prize ring. Sympathy, how-ever, is largely with General Boulanger, and the suspicion is rapidly gaining ground that M. Ferry will not light unless he can be assured that the chances of his getting hurt will be reduced to a remote possibil ity. In fact, men who have given the matter any thought, and there is scarcely one who has not, find it difficult to climinate from the things to be considered the suggestion of cowardice accompanying the ection of a man who goes out of his way to insult another and, when satisfaction is demanded of him on the field of honor, insists upon limiting the liability of danger to himself to a single exhange of shots at thirty-five paces. This proposition coming from M. Ferry's representatives, promptly and indignantly rejected by Count Dillon on behalf of General Boulanger, and his action is applauded by men who yesterday believed that M. Ferry was justified in his strictures upon General Boulanger, and denounced the latter's impudence in resenting the former's language in the manner he chose as tending to vindicate his wounded honor. On the other hand,

General Benianger's friends insist rare strenously than ever that nothing but the shedding of M. Ferry's blood will suffice shedding of M. Ferry's blood will stance to repair the injury he has inflicted upon France's most conspicious, if not her greatest soldier. Nobody doubts, that in a meeting without restrictions as to the number of shots the kind of a duel the latter wants to fight. M. Ferry has shown himself to be a thorough opportunist in this affair, if he has never done so before, by availing himself of the first opportunity presented to shirk the consequences of his ill-chosen and unprovoked language in a political speech, intended to grossly insult a man in every respect his peer, and as the action of his representatives has shown in respect of bravery his superior. Count Dillon, who, it may incidentally be mentioned, is the managing director of the Commercial (Mackay-Bennett) Cable Com-pany, is said to have remarked to a riend after his withdrawal from the conseconds, that a due ference of between the ex-Premier and ex-Minister of War was yet possible, but if it should be fought according to the methods of safety insisted upon by M. Ferry, it could not possibly be otherwise than a harmless affair. That General Boulanger would, how ever, consent to such an arrangement, both he and others of the General's friends did

PARIS, Aug. 8 .-- M. Ferry's seconds confirm the statements made by therepresenta tives of General Boulanger as to the disagreement at their conference, but explain that they proposed that the duel should be fought under the same conditions as those observed in the meeting between General Boulanger and as those observed in the meeting between General Boulanger and Baron Laventy. Boulanger's seconds refused to accede to their proposal, and claimed the right to settle the details of the affair. Ferry's seconds declined to admit the claim of the opposite party that the offended party was entitled to settle the conditions of the meeting, and the matter ended. WANTS LEGAL REDRESS.

McGarigle at the Old St. John Homestead in Canada---A Warrant Issued for His Arrest.

A Warrant Issued For the Arrest of McGarigle.

Montreal, Can., Aug. 3.—Two detectives left for London, Ont., last night, armed with a warrant for the arrest of McGarigle, which was issued at the instance of James Baxter, a broker of this city, on the charge of conspiracy. Baxter alloges that when McGarigle was chief of police in Chicago, ae conspired with one Sills, of Montreal, to have Baxter's portrait placed in the cogues' gallery. Sill- and Baxter, at the time, were fighting each other over the Silver Plume mining stock. Sills alleged that he had been swindled, and in the suit for the recovery of $50,000, which he had invested in its stock, he altempted to show that Baxter's record in Chicago was shady: hat he was known to the police there Baxter disproved this, and showed that his photograph had been placed in the rogues' gallery to injure him here. McGarigle adnitted this in an affid wit. Should he be arrested be will be hold here, to answer an action of damages for $70,000.

The Defense of the Boodlers. CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—In the boodlers' trial yesterday another batch of witnesses tesified that "once upon a time" the detendants bore good characters. HITS.

The Decaturs are record-breakers. No other club in the circuit beat the Rock-fords two straight games. Stapleton may be engaged to play with Decatur. He is sure in his position and is a fine coacher.

Bates was hit harder by the Decatus sluggers than by any other players he has faced. He felt bad about the resul of the game; but he didn't feel any wors than the Rockfords, who acknowledged that they couldn't hit Staley. Turner on third made an error in the first inning, but the runner didn't get in. It was in the eighth after seven goose eggshad been piled up that Bates bunted a ball to Turner who gracefully threw it over Lawrence, letting the batter around to third. He scored on O'Brien's hit.

Two hits and errors by Lawrence and Golden let in three runs in the ninth inning. Cal thought he had caught a foul tip and he ran to second to execute a double play, but Mills decided it not a oul, much to the catcher's disgust. Had been a foul—and it must have been he side would have been retired without he three runs. Stuley never pitched in finer style. He worked slow curves, drops, neck-winders, out-shoots and speed with excellent judgment, striking out 15 men, getting 2 put-outs, 17 assists, no errors, 3 hits, one a three-bagger. Callender gave him splen-did support all through the game. Cal, is the old reliable. He scored one run and two clean hits, one bringing in ar earned run.

Cahill played a brilliant game on second, and led the team in butting. He got 4 hits, one a two-bagger. Cahill is coming to the front in great shape.

The visitors had plenty of opportunities to do good fielding and they did it well. McQuaid in left field is a jewel. vell. McQuaid in left field is a jewel.
The Decatur patrons of the game like of the Decautr parons of the game fact to see good ball playing—win or lose— and they always appland both clubs. One of the Rockfords said on Monday, "Decatur is the weakest nine we have struck." Wonder what they think now.

Their record was broken in Decatur wher they struck the sluggers. Bates has ta-The Danville Platts will play the De cature at the Park to-morrow and Friday.

MULES AND MUSTANGS.

THEIR WORK AS PACK ANIMALS IN EARLY CALIFORNIA DAYS.

of the Gold Mining Craze on the Pa-

(Special Correspondence.)

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 1.—My first job in the California mines was that of beef packer to the miners in the Tuolumne. That was eight years after the "rush of '40." Times were still good. Laborers' wages were 44 per day. A carpentar got $5, Any man who could saw a board in two called himself u carpentar.

called himself a carpenter. I pucked my beef, already cut in steaks and roasting pieces, in panniers slung over a mustang's back. It was pretty tough beef— some of it, I think, cut from bulls who had some of it, I think, cut from buils who had fought in the Mexican arenas ever since the invasion of Cortes. We never bothered in cutting up a quarter of beef about "porterhouse steaks" or "sirtolus." We sliced it off from the neck to the rump as you would slice a potato for frying. Our purchasers got the sirloin and porterhouse all the same, somewhere in their ment. Most of the miners were away at their work when I left the meat at their cabins. I left it in the covered game safes, which were suspended by a cord from the tree, usually near or shadow-ing the mansion. But in the summer you could safely leave a steak hanging out of doors for days and it would not decay. The sun's heat and perfectly dry air soon covered it with a kind of film, a skin like purchinent. So it would get dryer and dryer, until the whole piece was "jerked," or sun cured. Only the yellow jackets, a species of wasp, would, when the meat was fresh, bore holes n it, cut the meat out in little bits with some manner of sharp apparatus they have, roll this meat up in balls twice as big as buckshot and in this shape fly away with it.

One day while on the dusty trail my mustang ran away with a full panner load. He was active with his heels, and every time he kicked up a red steak flew into the air, glowing in the sunshme, and thereafter falling flop in the red powders dust (regular brick Funeral Director

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy heranche, obstruction of the masal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, temedous, mucous, purationt, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and intimuned; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, backing or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a masal twang; the breath is offensive; such and taste are impaired; that is a sensation of diziness, with mental depression, a macking cough and general debliry. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manuficating half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. The first things that "busted" were the fifty pound sacks of flour; next the potatoes broke loose. The flour went up like a cloud in the air with his mad galloping, and I could see the potatoes rising and falling through the flour. It looked like whiteness remained all summer, and notil the fall rams washed it away. As I ran bellowing after the horse, I noticed fluid stains on the now red and white pathway—a compound of flour and pulverized red soil. This was the whisky. The two gallon demijohn had broken. So were some $30 worth of pro-

I did not see the yellow jacket do this. I did not see any yellow jacket. But I believed in him for all dint. No one else did. "The boys" called me 'The Mid Expressman of the Tuolumne"

In those early days this was the general method of transportation after leaving the few main towls traveled by vehicles. Down, down, down those long, steep mountain sides which bordered the American Feather, Mokelumne Calaveras, Stanislaus, Tuolumne and many another roaring, foaming, turbulent streams where gold was found, nor wagon could roll unless it rolled much farther than was desirable. Only the mule with his load could reach the many little camps of those days, nestled in canyons inclosed by walls so sta hey shut out the summer sun by 4 in the

The mule is often a perverse creature as to packing, though I can't find it in my heart to blame him for rebelling in some way against the slavery of burdens put upon him during his entire earthly existence. We had a "yaller mule" in our train going over to Washoe, that was always meditating and carrying out some kind of villainy. If he saw a low, overhanging rock he went for it in order that his load might hang against it and if possible be brushed off. tall day!"

Two days afterward he rolled down the steepest billside he could find, going over and over, pack and all, like a big dry goods box. At the bottom he key quiet, easy and uninjured till we went down and un-strapped him. We were half the afternoon getting the load up to the trail again, for to pack and lead him up to it was impossible. We were another half day straightening out we were another that day straightening out our bent and banged tin coffee pots and other camp cooking utensits which formed part of his load, and which he had in his descent rolled, pressed and twisted into uncouth and inconvenient forms. That he planned all this in his mind and so allowed himself to tumble down I am more than half disposed to be ieve, for a mule has a mind of his own, and can scheme and plan and remember injuries, since it is an old saying among mile drivers that one of these beasts will wait seven years to get a good chance to kiek a nan he's "down on." And one more strange and peculiar thing about the mule—no mut-ter how well you feed or how rich the food you give him, when in camp he's unpacked at night, he will first lay down and roll and grunt in the luxury and ease of relief from his heavy load, and the next thing he does is o munch and chew and swallow mouthfuls of the dead, dry and rotten little twigs, dead leaves, bark or such trash as he finds lying about. The old hands say he must have this staff, that it serves some "seful purpose in his digestive economy kno n only to himself, and that if he can't get it he'll fall away in flesh and even die. Prentice Mulford.

THE LATE URIEL CROCKER.

The Publisher of the First Book Printed from Storeotype Plates in America.

Boston, Aug. 1.—Uriel Crocker, probably the oldest publisher in America, whose name was long familiar to every reader of religious and educational literature, died at Cohassett, Mass., recently, aged 91 year. The firm of Crocker & Brewster was in existence sixty. nine years (counting from the original firm. Is the delightful laxative, and the only in which Mr Armsteeng was the principal), true remedy for habitual constipation Two months later Osmyn Browster entered the same office; and on Nov. 1, 1818, Mr. Armstrong took the two young men into partnership. In 1825 he retired and for sixtytwo years Crocker & Brewster have re mained partners, their premises having been the same for fifty-eight years and their firm the only book selling and publishing estab-lishment in Boston that weathered the financial storms of 1837 and 1857. They established a branch firm in New York, but dis posed of it to Jonathan Leavitt and Daniel A. Appleton, which was the origin of the URIEL CROCKER AND WIFE, great publishing house of D. Appleton & Co. The first enterprise that made the name of Crocker & Brewster famous was their publication of Scott's family Bible in six royal octavo volumes, the first large work ever ster ectyped in America. Mr. Crocker acquired a handsome fortune and was interested in various railroads and other public works. Last year the firm celebrated the seventy fifth ann versary of their meeting, in the office of Arm strong, and many men eminent in politics and literature were present. He leaves two sons and a daughter.

The Affairs of the Columbian Bank. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—No statement has yet been issued regarding the affairs of the Columbian Bank. President Phillips of the Columbian Bank. President Philips says that the statement of the bank's dealings with Ives & Co., of New York, are greatly exaggerated, and declares that the assignment was wholly due to temporary lack of funds in Philadelphia. He says the assets will fully meet the liabilities, which can not possibily be more than $300,000; but that many of the assets are of such a nature that a forced sale would be such a nature that a forced sale would be ruin. The assignees have done nothing yet beyond notifying the holders of securities and other creditors that the bank is now in their hands.
